From the ruins above, searchers removed the bodies of four Army officers killed when fire swept their quarters at Pine Camp, N. Y. Six other officers were injured, one critically.

Anything Less, He Tells Conference Would Be Short

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—President Truman met today with a group of leading business and labor leaders to discuss the administration's 10-point program for curbing living costs. Mr. Truman told his news conference he will submit to Congress in a couple of days specific legislation covering the wage and price controls which he has requested.

Six Survive Air Crash in Wilderness

Doctor Reports 23 Dead
Found at Scene as Snow Prevents Any Rescue

Wreck Is Charred
Party Travels Toward Scene With Sleds to Reach Plane

Westover Field, Miss., Dec. 11 (AP)—The U. S. Air Transport Command announced today there were only six survivors of the 29 American military men aboard the huge transport plane that crashed in Labrador's icy wilderness Tuesday night.

A doctor who landed at the wreckage eight miles north of Goose Bay reported 23 were killed in the crash.

Names of the survivors and dead are being withheld pending receipt of a complete report.

A hard, driving wet snow has prevented any large-scale rescue operation but doctors and medical supplies are being landed by helicopter.

A space has been cleared within a half mile of the scattered, charred wreckage.

The huge transport plunged flaming to earth in forested, hilly country that could not be reached by air or ground for nearly 24 hours.

A rugged rescue party traveling overland with dog-sleds reached the wreckage last night but first reports of the survivors came only after the landing of a radio-equipped helicopter.

Stormy weather hampered communications even though only eight miles separated the scene of the wreck from the Goose Bay airfield where the rescue operations are being directed.

It wasn't until daybreak that the first word came from Goose Bay. It was a terse message: "Survivors."

"Believe there are some survivors,"

A hard, driving wet snow has prevented any large-scale air rescue but a helicopter carrying doctors and medical supplies landed within a half mile of the scene.

Communications were meager because of the stormy weather.

Just before the report that some may have survived the crash came from Col. Paul A. Zurtman at Goose Bay, another message said two persons had been sighted from the air at the wreckage.

Whether these were survivors or Eskimos was not known at Goose Bay, where Maj. Gen. William Turner, commander of the Atlantic Division of the A.T.C., is directing the rescue operations.

For hours after reaching the scene, the rescue party was unable to report the fate of the occupants of the four-engine craft because of lack of radio equipment.

The R.C.A.F. informed Westover that "part of the tail section seems intact," but the remainder apparently was "gutted by fire."

Flyers who went to the scene reported they observed a lone man waving his arms near the ruins and what appeared to be fumes.

Unsure of Lights
A.T.C. headquarters here said it was unable to determine whether the lights were those of ground searches or survivors.

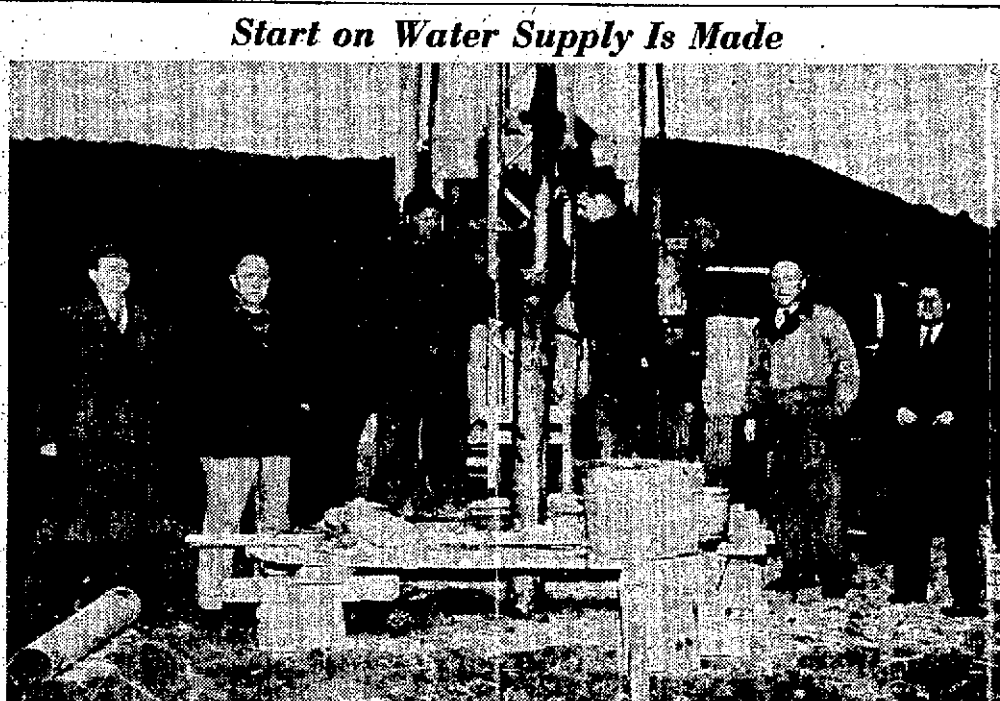

The crashed ship carried 10 crewmen and 19 other persons described as "military personnel," but it was not disclosed whether they included high ranking officers. Mail and military equipment for Westover Field also were aboard the craft.

Meteorologists said that although the weather was bad in the area survivors would not suffer seriously from exposure if they were rescued quickly.

The big ship—a C-54 Skymaster, capable of carrying 40 passengers, crashed within five minutes after it took off from Goose Bay at night.

Reports that a light was seen in the sky just before the crash caused speculation among air force personnel that the ship caught fire before plummeting.

Woodstock Sample Borings Will Be Sent to Engineer

Tests Are Being Conducted to Determine Which
Source Assures
Supply

Woodstock, Dec. 11.—Sample borings from the drilling experiments for a public water supply system here, will be forwarded to E. G. Keis, engineer of Troy as soon as rock is struck, it was announced today.

Test drillings started this week on the L. C. Dixon property off the Old Yerry Hill road. They had reached a depth of about 18 feet yesterday and will continue until rock is struck.

Engineer Keis advised the officials in charge to submit the sample borings as soon as the drillers hit rock. The drilling will continue in separate areas to determine which will provide the best supply of water.

The land on which the tests are being made is south of the Woodstock-Bearsville road back of the gas station.

Clayton Will Take
Rome Bank Post

Will Leave City January 2 to Become Assistant to President

Harold V. Clayton, who recently resigned as assistant to the president of the State of New York National Bank, will on January 2, next, assume the office of assistant to the president of the Rome Trust Company at Rome, according to a statement published Wednesday in the Rome Sentinel.

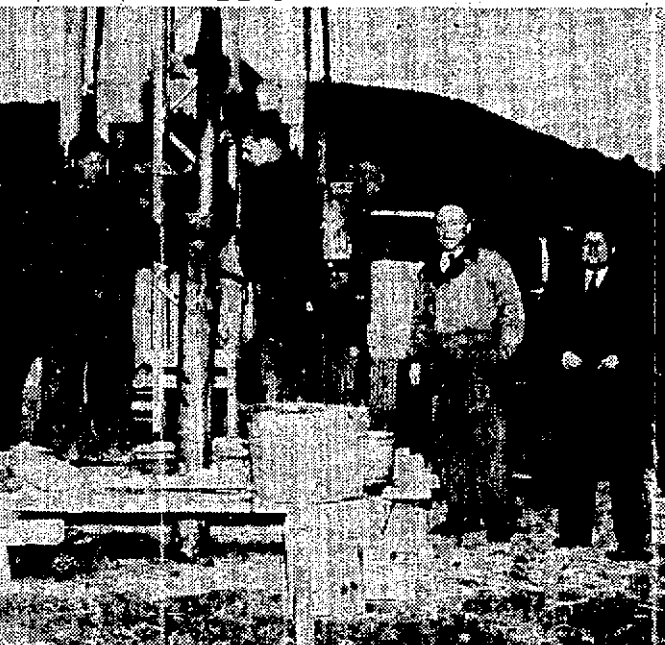

Mr. Clayton, who resides at 93 Roosevelt avenue, has been with the State of New York Bank since 1929 when he joined the staff as teller. He became assistant cashier in 1932 and cashier in 1934. When the National Guard was federalized in 1940 as a captain of the 156th Field Artillery unit of this city he entered service and served until October, 1945, being discharged from service as a lieutenant-colonel. At that time he resumed his duties with the bank in the capacity of assistant to the president.

The bank to which Mr. Clayton goes at Rome is one of the two banks of that city.

Mr. Clayton informed a Freeman reporter today that he would assume his new duties on January 2, 1948, but would continue to make his home in Kingston for a time, probably moving to Rome when the spring session of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce last spring, Mr. Clayton's term as president of that group will expire on January 1.

Examiners to Meet
The Board of Electrical Examiners will meet at 7:30 tonight at the Central Fire Station for the purpose of examining applicants for master electrician's licenses, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy announced today.

Eastern Tractor Reports Big Gain in Year's Sales

Stassen Lays Down
Seven-Point Plan
Increase Goes Beyond
100 Per Cent; Total
Sales for 1947
$1,901,707

An increase of more than 100 per cent in sales volume for this year over 1946 was reported for the Eastern Tractor Manufacturing Corp., 36 St. James street, by J. J. Carroll, president of the concern today.

Sales for the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30, the president said, were $1,901,707.48 as compared with $783,832.49 in the preceding year.

After provision for preferred stock dividends, the report said, earnings on the common stock outstanding amounted to $5.90 per share compared with $1.37 per share for the preceding year.

The president reported 1,200 dealers now merchandising Generalad products and that an international advertising campaign inaugurated last August has an objective of 3,000 dealers.

The company has acquired a substantial interest in companies in the farm equipment industry and in the lawn mower industry at Alexandria, Va., Philadelphia, Pa., and Portage, Mich. Eastern's affiliate, the Western Tractor Manufacturing Corp. at Olympia, Wash., has been in operation since April 1946 and is continuing to purchase the component parts from Eastern at Kingston.

The Washington, D.C. office is now negotiating with various purchasing commissions from overseas countries for substantial shipments of the small tractor and agricultural implements. Consumption of the negotiations are being delayed pending approval of the details to be worked out by the Emergency Relief Plan recently approved by Congress.

Mr. Carroll stated that the expanding dealer organization and the aid about to be extended to Europe, particularly for the purchase of farm equipment so badly needed in that area, forecasts a successful year for this Kingston company in 1948.

The annual dinner and report to employees will be held at the Holbrau Monday evening, Dec. 5.

Unemployment Tax Credit
To Go to 94,810 Firms

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Unemployment insurance tax credit totaling a record $148,560,179 goes to 94,810 firms in New York state as the first "rebate" under the hotly-debated Young-Demo "merit-rating" law.

Governor Dewey, in announcing the figures yesterday, said that "because of the unprecedented size of the surplus this year the tax credit is expected to mean significant savings for the firms."

Another 65,000 employers subject to the Unemployment Insurance law did not qualify this year for rebates, mainly because they had not been in business for 17 calendar quarters, Dewey said.

Employers will be notified of their credit before the end of December. Credit represents rebates on contributions to the Unemployment Insurance fund for the 15 months ended September 30.

Last year, 97,790 firms shared an $84,579,949 surplus in the pool, Dewey noted.

When the Young-Demo law was passed by this year's legislature, official spokesmen forecast a 1947 surplus of about $140,000,000.

The credits will be applicable to the year begun October 1. Employers pay to the fund 2.7 per cent of their payrolls.

Under the Young-Demo law, the fund is fixed at 3 1/2 times the previous year's contributions. Anything over that is surplus, subject to rebate. Previously, reserve was fixed at four times the contributions of the preceding year.

The pool held $1,032,793,868 as of September 30. The required contribution for 1948 is $1,032,793,868.

Costs Take Ulster Toll; Aid to Come

Supervisor Snyder Gives Summary Explaining Increases; Net to Be
$1,079,153.17

Proportion Is Same
Government Is Affected
Exactly as Citizens by Rises, He Says

The first million dollar budget since 1931 was adopted by the Board of Supervisors Wednesday evening by the unanimous vote of the Board. The cost of operating county government for the year 1948 will be $1,360,440.37 less refunds and charge backs amounting to $281,287.20, leaving a net budget of $1,079,153.17.

This is the first budget to pass the million dollar mark since the 1931 Board adopted a total county budget for all purposes of $1,707,316.44 for county operation during the year 1932.

The previous year the total budget had been $1,123,375.97. In 1932 the Board adopted a budget of $741,178.24 for all purposes in 1933 and since that time the annual budgets have been well under the million dollar mark.

Increased costs of materials, labor and services in practically all branches of government are responsible for the increased budget. The current net budget was $820,282.66, or $258,314.51 less than the budget for next year.

Snyder Explains Costs
Supervisor Harry Snyder presented to the Board a summary of the increased costs in explanation of the increased budget and said the increase was indicative of the rapidly increasing cost of living which "has reached out to government in about the same proportion that it has affected the daily cost of living of the individual."

In explaining the upward trend in government, Mr. Snyder said: "The 1948 net budget for the County of Ulster is $1,079,153.17, an increase of $258,314.51 over the 1947 budget, which was $820,282.66. This upward trend of approximately 31 per cent is due almost entirely to the increased costs of all services which go into county government today, including materials used, cost of labor and for services rendered in one form or another and reflects the upward spiral of the cost of living today."

"Taking item for item the 1948 budget shows the increased cost of living today has reached out to government in about the same proportion that it has affected the daily cost of living of the individual."

"Chief increases in the county budget for 1948 will be found due to increased costs of materials used, an increase in salaries and in a few instances to additional services which will be rendered in 1948."

"Among the larger items in which the increased budget is reflected are the following: County Auditors Fund, up $7,500 due largely to the increased cost of materials, cost of repairs and higher prices of the majority of items which are purchased through the office."

"The Court and Jury Fund is up $9,000 due to the increased cost of operation of the courts. This

Bixby Says Ulster And City Programs Favorable to Area

Highway Construction Plans
Are Excellent, State
District Engineer
Declares

James S. Bixby, district engineer of the New York State Department of Public Works, in a brief talk before the Rotary Club on Wednesday disclosed information which indicates that Kingston and Ulster county are extremely fortunate in their state highway construction programs both from an immediate standpoint and a long-range view.

The immediate work now underway in Ulster county is a section of the Catskill Thruway, above Saugerties, which is part of the vast New York Thruway from New York city to Buffalo; reconstruction of 10 miles of Route 28, known as the Ashokan Boulevard and the Kerhonkson slide project.

The West Shore grade crossing elimination and the bridge spanning the Hudson river at Kingston were seen by the state engineer as future projects.

The elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore Railroad will be accomplished, he declared, and the work will get underway sooner than we expect.

Has Never Turned Back
As for the bridge across the Hudson, he asserted that the State of New York has never turned back on a bridge project once it has gone this far. Only in one instance has this happened and then when it was found impossible to erect the necessary abutments.

The district engineer stated that the work on the Catskill Thruway would go forward as rapidly as possible. A grading project may be let next year for starting work on the Thruway section from Saugerties to the point where it will intersect Route 28. The Thruway will run west of Kingston.

The section of the Thruway between Saugerties and Catskill was started first because of the heavy traffic over this stretch of the highway and the present condition of the road between these points.

Work on the construction of the highway on Route 28 from West Hurley to Cold Brook will continue this winter. A decision will be made whether to tear up the road this winter. If this is done, he said, it will result in an earlier completion of the road.

May Remedy Slide
A plan is now under consideration for the Kerhonkson Slide, which he said, may remedy the

Federal Group Says Kingston Electric Rates Are Higher

Various Comparisons Show
Residents Pay Above Average; Study of
3,776 Cities

New York, Dec. 11 (Special)—A comparison of electric rates in cities throughout the country, just issued by the Federal Power Commission, shows that residents of Kingston pay higher rates for service than do consumers in most other cities.

The typical monthly bill in Kingston, as of the early part of this year, for 25 kilowatt hours of current, the usual amount for small-scale lighting purposes, was $1.50, as compared with the national average of $1.28. For 100 kilowatt hours, the amount generally used for lighting, small appliances and refrigeration, the monthly bill in Kingston was $4.65, as against an average of $3.75 in the other cities. In the 250 kilowatt hour class, where cooking is involved in addition, the monthly bill in Kingston was $7.65, contrasted with $6.93 elsewhere.

The Federal Power Commission reports, on the basis of typical monthly bills in the 3,776 cities studied, that "except for the operation of fuel clauses in industrial service, the downward trend in electric rates continues." In the past 12 years, it states, there has been an overall drop of approximately one cent per kilowatt hour.

Palestine Battle Continues
Jerusalem, Dec. 11 (AP)—Jews and Arabs battled today in Jerusalem's old walled city in a continuation of the Holy Land strife which has taken 153 lives in 12 days. The deaths of 20 Arabs and two Jews were reported today in sporadic outbreaks throughout Palestine, principally in Jerusalem and the port city of Haifa.

British troops blocked the gates of Jerusalem's walled city, barring the passage of both Jews and Arabs who, panic-stricken by the violence touched off by the United Nations decision to partition Palestine, were moving out their possessions in army trucks. The death toll in the whole Middle East was 269.

State Democratic Leaders Back O'Dwyer Fiscal Plan

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—State Democratic leaders, preliminary strategy for their 1948 legislative agenda, agreed upon today stood "100 per cent" behind Mayor William O'Dwyer's fiscal program under which he proposes to solve New York city's financial difficulties.

The party chieftains pledged their support to the mayor's program, which among other things calls for a three-cent increase in the city's nickel subway fare, at a meeting yesterday attended by 14 state senators, 40 assemblymen and several upstate county chairmen.

They also agreed upon an overall state legislative bill to print which Democratic State Chairman

Roma Company Fined For Its 'Filthy' Plant

San Francisco, Dec. 11 (AP)—A federal judge fined the Roma Macaroni Co. $10,000 for violating the Pure Food Act after hearing government testimony that its factory was "filthy."

Judge George Harris also ordered Roma Manager Dominick Louis Gerbo to appear Jan. 3 for sentencing—a maximum three years in prison.

Gerbo and the company pleaded guilty yesterday after government witnesses testified the company made interstate shipments of filthy food products and appeared to be "completely indifferent" although Roma had been fined $1,250 in June, 1946, on a similar charge.

Judge Harris commented that the testimony was "revolting."

The R.C.A.F. informed Westover that "part of the tail section seems intact," but the remainder apparently was "gutted by fire."

Flyers who went to the scene reported they observed a lone man waving his arms near the ruins and what appeared to be fumes.

WHEN WINTER COMES

Travel ads are now appearing designed to tempt tourists to the warm spots of the United States and Caribbean resorts. In alluring photos are beautiful girls clad in lovely bathing suits, romping through surf under tropic suns. Florida's flowers, California's old missions, the gentle climate of the Gulf states all beckon northerners. There will be an exodus from one half of the country to the other.

But those who stay at home in the north can find winter very pleasant. What is there to take the place of skating—if one is young in spirit and agile in limb? The sport should be pursued out of doors. If a country pond is not at hand, it is always possible to flood a vacant lot in a city neighborhood. Old fashioned sleigh rides are being revived. The widely popular enterprise of skiing is not always a convenient sport or one for every age group. But the most dignified father, if he lives in the middle of a city, should be able to take a belly slam on a sled with his son once or twice a winter.

And what is the matter with a brisk winter walk even if walking is almost an extinct art? If people would try it, they might be surprised at how enjoyable it is, after all, to walk. There is always the good old winter pastime of sitting comfortably inside, watching the little snow flakes settle. If one has an open fireplace, a book at hand and a firm red apple, this combination can be the very best of all winter time sports.

Winter can be fun. At least north-bound people might as well think so. Everybody can't go junketing off to the south.

People are beginning to ask where Joe Stalin keeps himself. Just give that man a little more invisible publicity, and he may develop into a solar myth.

AIRPLANE BIRTHDAY

Why is the world not celebrating December 17th? On that day in 1903 a crude box-like structure containing a motor flew for 59 seconds, traversing a distance of 852 feet. From that brief beginning on the sands of Kitty Hawk, N. C., Orville and Wilbur Wright went on to achievements which are the basis of the plane industry today.

Their work had surprisingly little recognition at the time. Fred Kelly, their biographer, tells repeatedly of efforts to interest the big city newspapers. All thought it a hoax, like the perennial sea-serpent story, and printed nothing.

The world should honor the unflagging patience and ingenuity of these brother mechanics. We should also remember that there is still too much of the stinginess of the uncle who, when asked to help them, replied condescendingly, "Boys, some day someone may invent a flying machine, but depend on it, it will not be anybody from Dayton, Ohio."

It doesn't seem fair that this atomic energy everybody is talking about isn't utilized for getting to work in the morning.

Wild game seems to be moving back to the middle west. They estimate that there are 5,000 deer ranging in eight Ohio counties.

The University of Minnesota is bragging about a new type of hog. It is no handsomer than any other hog, but they do say it's very good eating.

SONS OF ILLINOIS

Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois has declined to run for governor in 1948. It is thought that he hopes for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

Until Franklin Roosevelt came along, Illinois was thought sure Republican territory. Cleveland carried it in 1892, and Wilson, aided by Theodore Roosevelt's bolt, in 1912. In other years the state was sure for the G.O.P.

This did not prevent two residents from being nominated for vice-president. Senator John A. Logan, "Black Jack," a dashing but uncouth figure, was named on the ill-fated Republican ticket of 1884, headed by James C. Elaine. Logan was not needed to carry

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

When a small boy, I went to school on Broome Street on the lower East Side of New York. There may have been a Christian child in my class but I do not recall any such unusual being. We were all Jewish children; our parents were immigrants from Poland, Russia, Galicia and such places.

Nevertheless, when Christmas came, as it did each year we learned to sing Christmas carols and we had a Christmas tree and we gave our teachers Christmas presents. Our parents did not object; maybe they were too hard-working and too happy to be in this land of freedom to bother with such details. Nearly always, just about Christmas time, we would also celebrate Hanukkah, the Feast of the Maccabees, which was quite merry, particularly as we would be given presents and we ate lots of potato pancakes. It was a season of great merriment and it was all especially good for little children.

So I was shocked when I read that an assistant superintendent of schools in New York had forbidden the singing of Christmas carols in the public schools under his jurisdiction. Then it appeared that he had been misunderstood and that what he really meant was that it was to be left to each principal to decide what to do. And all kinds of people had their say about it.

Really, this was a stupid bit of very bad judgment, inevitable in the total secularization of education where they teach all sorts of scientific superstitions and mythology but become frightened lest a child learn that there is a God Who has given Man conscience and will and the capacity to understand the difference between right and wrong. What harm can it do to a Jewish child to sing a Christmas carol or a Christian child to learn of the heroism of Judas Maccabees? If we are God's children, may we not learn each other's songs? Or are we not God's children? Are we only a beach-worm evolved into man by some trickiness of nature while other worms just remained worms? Is it less superstitious to believe that worm theory than the Adam and Eve theory?

How much more logical is Sam Goldwyn's "The Bishop's Wife." When this child from the Warsaw ghetto told me that this was his greatest picture, I could not but feel that Sam was promoting another Hollywood exaggeration. But after I saw it, I realized that truly one must feel the presence of God to produce such a Christmas Tale. And it was taken from a book by Robert Nathan, a Jew. They must believe in miracles or they could not have done so magnificently in motion pictures with the miraculous resurgence of love. For is it not love—the love not only of man for woman, but of all men for all men, of all that is human for all that is human—that we need most to cure this world of its ailments?

This "The Bishop's Wife" tells so simply and truly and understandingly. True, Hollywood must tell it in its own way, using the implements and dimensions that it has, but the message of love is the all-enduring Christmas message of love lost. For that is the whole message of Christmas.

Yes, in this picture, even a Bishop forgets his faith. He suffers from practicality. He would sooner build a glorious cathedral of stone and steel than bring the light of love into the lives of those about him. He is driven by the need for acceptance. He who preaches of angels doubts the one who came into his life. For sophistication permits him to speak what he does not surely believe. Yet, in the end, the Bishop, too, knows the truth, for he has witnessed God's wonders performed.

I felt, as I watched "The Bishop's Wife" on the screen, that Sam Goldwyn, the immigrant from Warsaw driven to New York whose kin must have been among those murdered by hate, was impelled to portray this picture of love, of kindness, of forbearance as a Christmas carol in this year 1947 when men forget so easily that civilization is conscience and love and the aspiration toward God. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOLISM

One of the gratifying changes in our general view of life in these days is that in our outlook on alcoholism. Everybody realizes that this change is quite recent, yet back in the second century a Roman jurist urged that inebriates (alcoholics) be treated as sick or diseased persons.

In their book, "Alcohol Explored," Drs. Howard W. Haggard and E. M. Jellinek quote Dr. Thomas Trotter, a Scottish physician in 1804 defining alcoholism: "In medical language I consider drunkenness, strictly speaking, to be a disease, produced by a remote cause, and giving birth to actions and movements in the living body that disorder the functions of health."

Where alcoholism runs or appears to run in some families—father, son, grandson—it is only natural to feel that the desire or craving for alcohol was transmitted in the genes. Very well. But this is not believed by research workers on alcoholism, they do believe that some "tendency" or inherited which could result in alcoholism or other unusual behavior. The fact that 60 per cent of all alcoholics studied have been found to have parents or grandparents alcoholics is a proof that heredity is a factor in causing alcoholism. Fortunately, although the tendency may be handed down it may touch only one member of a large family or skip the family entirely.

What has been definitely found is that in at least 50 per cent of alcoholics there is nervousness and simple oddities of behavior. On the other hand, about 30 per cent of alcoholics are not nervous nor odd in any way. Some of the nervous or odd symptoms are stubbornness in their opinions, optimism at times and pessimism at other times, and avoiding responsibilities.

In regard to treatment, the success of Alcoholics Anonymous is outstanding. This success springs from "that fellow feeling," a desire to help because they realize the need. Another successful treatment is putting (atropine, digitalis) in any alcoholic beverage used. This seems to help about 60 per cent of cases.

The latest method treatment is a 5-milligram tablet of Benzadrine after breakfast and after lunch, with a sleeping tablet at night. These drugs must be prescribed by a physician.

Illinois, and brought no strength outside. In 1892 and in 1900 Adlai E. Stevenson was the Democratic choice. He may have had some share in the Democrats' surprising capture of Illinois that year, which helped put him in the vice-presidential chair; but he had no influence, for or against, when named as William J. Bryan's running-mate in 1900, a team that was badly defeated.

If Illinois has not furnished conspicuous vice-presidential candidates, few states can surpass the two men it has sent to the White House. They were Ulysses S. Grant and Abraham Lincoln.

History Hangs on Her Fate

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Dec. 11.—The fault may be ours, but it often seems to me that the professional bleeding-hearts deliberately face it difficult for the right-minded element, to understand them. We hear Frank Sinatra deploring Fascism and, sincerely, wonder why a young man so healthy and pugnacious did not find a place on the dangerous Murrumbidgee, run out as a driver with some French or British ambulance outfit in the war. I know of an old fellow, nearly 60, retired from the sea, who went back as the skipper of a tanker. He was soon lost but he would sport at anyone who said today that he gave his life for human freedom. He had read some history and he was a very practical man and his idea was that if our side won, as he was confident we would, his money would keep him through a comfortable old age. The pay was high. He gambled and lost. Nothing could be more idiotic than to suggest that he left his home and tied loose into the dangers that soon killed him to rebuke callous American Anglos for calling American Italians rude names, which seems to be Sinatra's version of our war aims.

Another I know, a young musician blind in one eye, joined up with the Field Service and got a medal from the Australians for swimming some of their wounded across a cold river in Italy. He shares Sinatra's feelings about the words "Dago" and "Wop," but because he is a young gentleman, not for fear that Sinatra might slug him when his head was turned. Being a musician he likes Italians and he thinks Sinatra is neither a good musician nor a presentable Italo-American. His reason for crowding into this war unnecessarily were more spiritual than the old sailor's. He was young and strong, his country was in a fight and so he went, half blind though he was.

Sinatra was strong, even athletic but had a legal right to exemption and he took full advantage of it. And yet, his authorized biography tells us that he now seriously thinks of inciting bunches of emotional little girls to disrupt political meetings in the 1948 campaign. Whenever he decides that a speaker on a proposition is un-democratic. I doubt that my one-eyed young friend would stand for this. He has strong ideas on strong-arm political methods.

Sinatra's first political demonstration was made on the night that Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected for his fourth term in 1944. In the company of Orson Welles and others he tore the circuit of expensive New York saloons known as the mob route and spent some time at the political headquarters of Sidney Hillman, which were the Communist headquarters too. He got shrieking drunk and kicked up such a row in the Waldorf that a house policeman was sent up to subdue him, and did. Sinatra seems to have had hallucinations or he told a broadcaster that he had banged on the door of one who had opposed Roosevelt, intending to beat him up but, not finding him, beat up his furniture, instead. That was his first venture and strictly imaginary into physical terrorism. He seems to have enjoyed the fantasy. For the dream of leading shock-troops developed later. It seems significant that Sinatra's companion on this night was Orson Welles.

Welles, though he's too young, also was entitled to exemption. Danny Kaye, it will be remembered, a third furious theoretical defender of human liberty, was denied permission to go abroad as an entertainer when his draft board held that his physical condition and mental attitude were inappropriate.

These very important people make themselves difficult to understand. They seem almost frantic in their hatred of injustice and yet they let millions of others, 18-year-old boys and old men of family, do the actual fighting. How could men so ferocious restrain themselves? Welles has seriously stated that he is not a Communist because he regards Communism as an enemy of democracy which he believes in. He is ready to spend enormously out of his earnings to defend the freedoms through organizations which he approves. He suffers badly from asthma and probably would have been culled even if he had ever managed to sneak into any of our fighting services. But he certainly could have thumbed his way to Britain, where thousands of asthmatics and cardinals went through it all. Or he could have sailed aboard the cargo boats, to lend a hand; somehow.

Welles, like so many others, Sinatra, Kaye and Quentin Reynolds, has really luxurious tastes. They are all fastidious carriage traders. Mr. Reynolds covered the air-raid in London and cashed in on the courage of the cockney in Hollywood and in orations for cash at the grooming board on the festive luncheon circuit. His check for $2,000 for a few words of voluptuous praise for the Garrison boys was paid for ultimately in the war bonds bought by soldiers who couldn't come back until it was over over there. In New York, Reynolds lives at the River House, the most pretentious row of flats in the United States.

He likes nice things, although he may not have them long for he is more a salesman than a writer and recently he was down to covering the hearings of the committee on un-American Activities as a reporter for Marshall Field's thing. That thing isn't the grave train. There have been reports in Hollywood that Welles has a florist fly his flowers out all the way from southern France. That probably is a distortion of the actual truth which is that he does prefer and does enjoy beefsteaks which are flown to Hollywood from the east. His asthma is such that he requires a large amount of protein. Western steaks contain protein of a sort but not enough or the right sort. The eastern steaks are just right.

Now some ignorant persons believe a man with lots of money should give liberally to the poor as the price of voice on the subject of poverty. Mr. Welles disagrees. That would be a denial of freedom of speech. A millionaire should be allowed to feast on eastern steaks flown west while the poor live on hicks outside his very door. A rich man should be allowed to deny poverty aloud though he never gives a dime to charity. That, you see, is true freedom of speech and only ignorance would argue the contrary.

So Orson Welles dines on steaks from the cow that jumped over the moon, even while he belittles in his angry treble against economic wrong. But he doesn't undertake to explain himself to us and so we misunderstand and some of us may actually dislike him. But the unfair part of it all, is that Orson Welles thinks anyone who is as stupid as to have to ask for explanations is too ignorant to understand his point of view. That is an abomination of the boy.

During the war he was implored one night to preside at a rally at the Hollywood Bowl. Henry Morgenthau, himself, made the request. He agreed only on condition that an escort of secret service agents be sent to take him there and see him home. There weren't enough agents to hand and the situation as it was saved only when a number of Los Angeles police who were off duty, agreed to give up their hours of rest to grease the vanity of Orson Welles.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—The year 1947 probably will go down in history as the one in which Uncle Sam became the pawnbroker of western civilization.

A backward glance discloses it also had its odd accomplishments in many other fields of endeavor. Our nominations for president: The man who did most for posterity: The Siamese Prince Singha, who died worn out in the service of mankind leaving 180 wives, 24 recognized families and more than 800 children. No man tried harder to be the father of his country.

The most interesting homicide: The case of the 33-year-old Baltimore husband who strangled his 33-year-old tattooed bride because she beat him up and insisted on showing her tattoos to admiring sailors.

Runner-up: The man who killed his wife because she made him say, "pretty please."

The most depressing single statistic: The American Telephone and Telegraph Company's statement that the United States held 42,000,000 telephone conversations the previous year—301 for each inhabitant. No figure was given on how many were wrong numbers.

The man who did most to worry school children: The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis M. Kenny of Malone, N. Y., who announced he had found a way to trisect an arc, a feat held impossible by mathematicians for centuries.

The most reasonable husband of the year: The 69-year-old Californian who sought an annulment or divorce from the wife he never had seen since he kissed her goodbye in 1900 on his induction into the army two hours after his marriage.

The hottest issue at the polls: The question of whether to allow Sunday movies in Parryville, Pa. Citizens decided yes, 58 to 47, although the village has no theatre.

Most depressing scientific fact: Discovery by an Eastman Kodak researcher that the human eye can distinguish 17,000 separate colors, 600 more than the manufacturers of Christmas neckties thought possible.

Most cheerful news to the world of mice: Destruction by forest fire of a laboratory at Bar Harbor, Me., which had developed cats with four ears and extra claws.

Most thought-provoking contribution to agriculture: The Australian gardener who went to a circus, obtained some fertilizer from the elephant quarters, and boosted the weight of his white turnips from one pound to 12 1/2 pounds. ("Think what might have been achieved with fertilizer from dinosaurs," he said.)

Most uncompromising figure in international labor strife: Luigi Bolini who conducted a one-man strike that left the village of Selva, Italy, in darkness. He had been refused a 10-cent-a-year wage increase for throwing the switch that supplies electrical power.

British war bride who has best chance of success in America: Mrs. Jean Tilton, who took one look at Brooklyn from the port-hole of her ship—and fainted with joy.

Consumer Spending

Consumer spending in the United States rose from about $67.5 millions in 1939 to a rate of about $165 millions annually in 1947.

Church Rededication Marks Improvements in Ellenville

Changes Include Modern Interior, Organ and Chancel; George E. Lowe Was Architect

Ellenville, Dec. 10.—One of the most notable historic events in the history of the Ellenville Methodist Church, which in 1929 celebrated the 100th anniversary of the introduction of Methodism in what is now the village of Ellenville, was the rededication service held in the church Sunday morning, under the direction of the Rev. J. Elmer Cates, pastor.

The service marked the completion of a program that has largely transformed and modernized the entire interior of the church building, a program that was begun in the spring of 1944 under the pastorate of the Rev. Hugh J. McNelly, at that time as a move to start a fund for a new organ, but which grew in extent and scope under the pastorate of the Rev. J. C. Eason and has been brought to a successful conclusion under the Rev. Mr. Cates.

The improvements include, not only a superb new organ and console made by the Wicks Organ Co. of Highland, Ill., but also an entire new sanctuary and chancel; an enlarged and modernized church kitchen, with new equipment and increased closet room; a fine youth room, almost double the size of the former room and with large closet space to accommodate the various young people's societies; redecoration of the church school room and the entrance halls. In all the changes and improvements represent an expenditure of nearly $18,000.

Outside of the fact that the balconies, with their fine lines, running the entire length of the church remain unchanged, an almost complete transformation has been made to the front of the church interior, following the decision to put the organ pipes at the back of the church, over the rear entrances to the balcony, with the console placed at the left of the preacher, on the platform of the sanctuary.

The pulpit has been placed at the corner of the sanctuary facing the congregation's right, while the lectern is at the other corner. The altar rail has been divided, and steps lead up through the center opening to the floor of the sanctuary and to the chancel and altar which occupy the space formerly housing the organ and console. An illuminated cross occupies the central position above the altar, with lighted candles at either side. Heavy hangings of brocade and velvet occupy the space back of the altar while the domed space overhead is decorated in old rose which changes to a shade of pink when the lights are turned on. The choir stalls are arranged at either side of the entrance to the chancel, the singers seated so as to face away from the congregation.

The new arrangement replaces that long in vogue in Methodist churches as a rule, with the pulpit and preacher occupying the space at the front and directly in the center, the choir back of him, facing the congregation and the organ and console back of the choir. In regard to the change the Rev. Mr. Cates wrote in a historical booklet given out Sunday: "This (the building of a traditional chancel in the space formerly occupied by the organ) 'no doubt appeared to some as a radical departure for a Methodist Church, but it was pointed out that John Wesley himself favored the traditional set-up. Nearly every new Methodist Church follows the old style chancel and many old churches being altered likewise have reverted to the ancient style followed by the Eastern and Western Catholic churches, as well as by the Anglican and Lutheran Churches."

Lowe Is Architect
Architect George E. Lowe of Kingston, who prepared the plans for the changes, was present at the dedication service and received high praise for the manner in which he had carried out the work.

There was a large congregation present Sunday morning for the dedication program, which was highly commended for the manner in which it was arranged and carried out.

A leading feature was the memorial dedications, which were as follows:

Dedication Made.
The inner arch and dossier—in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Markle, by her daughter, Mrs. Elbertha Heidrich.

The console—in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Blumenauer, by their daughter, Mrs. Fred Craft.

The organ—in memory of Mrs. Libbie M. Potter, by her son, Allen D. Potter.

The pulpit—in memory of Private George Reynolds Gillette, 180th Inf., 45th Div., born in Ellenville October 9, 1922; killed near Aschaggenburg, Germany, March 30, 1945. Unveiled by William Terwilliger, a friend of the family.

The lectern—in memory of Edgar Sylvester Taylor, 2nd. Lieut., 33rd Bombardment Sq., Army Air Corps, born in Ellenville January 25, 1918; killed near Townsville, Australia, April 21, 1942. Unveiled by his cousin, Miss Maxine Taylor, of Kingston.

The chancel screen—in memory of P. C. Floyd Royal Hull, Air Corps, born in Ellenville March 1, 1922; killed at Salina, Kansas, May 11, 1943. Unveiled by his mother, Mrs. Chancel Hull.

Also presented for dedication were: The kitchen, by Miss Florence Lloyd, president W.S.C.S., the church school room, by Superintendent Irving M. Guttridge, the youth room, by Miss Jean Tice, president of the Youth Fellowship.

The dedications were accepted for the board of trustees by H. Westlake Coons.

The program included selections by the choir, under direction of Harry J. Smith; an anthem by the little folks of the Wesley Choir, Miss Jennie McDowell, leader; the dedication prayer by the Rev. J. Elmer Cates and a solo by Allen M. Potter. The scripture for the day was read by the Rev. William H. Moser of Ridgewood, pastor of the church, 1913-1916.

The dedication sermon was given by the Rev. C. Lloyd Lee, superintendent of the Newburgh District. It was generally acclaimed as a very excellent sermon, with practical application of some of the thoughts evoked by the solemn dedicatory services of the day.

Edward F. Schmitt, organist of the church, presided at the new organ for the hymns and various musical selections, giving at the close of the service the "Finale from D Major Fugue" by Bach.

Organ Recital Given
The church was filled to capacity at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the organ recital given by C. Franklin Pierce, minister of music at St. James Methodist Church, Kingston, for the past five years. An organist director and teacher of recognized ability, Mr. Pierce delighted the large congregation with a varied program of music that not only displayed his ability but brought out the range and sweet tones of the new organ.

Assisting Mr. Pierce was Robert Fatum of Kingston, soloist at St. James Church and a pupil of Mr. Pierce's. His fine baritone was enjoyed as he sang two numbers. Continued on Page Eleven

Newburgh Man Invents Buoyant Swim Suit

A 79-year-old Newburgh man has demonstrated a patented plastic bathing suit that is buoyant, which he invented recently.

Albert Somers, 186 Liberty street, the inventor, used the Y.W.C.A. pool in Newburgh for his demonstration of the swim suit, which he claims is so buoyant that "a person wearing one of the suits cannot drown."

The suit was exhibited by Patricia Jackson, who floated, swam and dived wearing the new suit, which is not bulky and looks like any other bathing suit, according to a Newburgh reporter who witnessed the demonstration.

Somers announced that manufacture of the suit will begin very shortly, and they will be sold by a large New York department store.

Discharge Papers To Be Copied for Bonus Applicants

The recently enacted New York State Bonus legislation requires that veterans must present full-sized, photostat copies of their discharge in order to be eligible for the benefits provided under the law. In order to assist veterans, County Clerk Robert A. Snyder today announced that his office has obtained a machine for that purpose from the Photostat Corporation and that it is now set up in readiness to serve them.

Howard C. Slaughter, Director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Bureau, has loaned his Veteran Advisor, Ray Mayone, as operator of the machine and it is requested that all veterans leave their original discharge papers at the Bureau, 240 Fair street, Kingston, N. Y., and not with the County Clerk.

This service of furnishing full-sized, photostat copies of discharge papers will be rendered without charge to all veterans.

Methodists Urged to Act

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Dec. 11 (AP)—The Methodist Church should take more active part in formulating United States foreign policy, Bishop G. Brentley Oxnam of New York said today. The church should provide "competent men to represent the moral opinion of the world at the places where decisions are made," Bishop Oxnam told delegates to the annual session of the Board of Missions and Church Extension.

Gallagher Action Continues in Court

An action brought by Francis P. Gallagher against Dorothy McCann to set aside deeds was continued in Supreme Court today. Plaintiff and defendant were heard by Judge J. J. Connelley.

Francis P. Gallagher now brings an action to set aside the transfers on the grounds that at the time of making the transfers in November 1946, Mrs. Gallagher was not competent to dispose of the property.

In the transfer of several pieces of property Mrs. Gallagher decided to the defendant a greater portion of her real property than was given the plaintiff. Plaintiff seeks by the present action to set aside the transfers, contending that at the time of the making of the deeds his mother was not competent to make such transfers.

Called as a witness by the plaintiff this morning was Dr. M. Elizabeth Moore who testified she had treated Mrs. Gallagher, who was suffering from a heart condition. Dr. Moore testified to the physical condition of Mrs. Gallagher at the time she was being treated. On cross-examination Dr. Moore said in her opinion Mrs. Gallagher was competent to dispose of the property at the time. Other witnesses called this morning were Marie Finch and Mrs. L. Barth. The case was continued after the noon recess.

Chris J. Flanagan appears for plaintiff and Connelley and Connelley appear for the defendant. Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until Friday at 10.

Hanley Warns Education Economy Can Be False

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley warned today against ruling the American school system by "false ideas of economy" and urged educators to "sell" taxpayers on the value of modern schools. He said education "costs so much because society is growing more complex."

In an address prepared for the City College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, he asserted: "The school system that fails to respond to the changing needs of the times is worse than futile, it is a social crime inflicted upon defenseless youth."

"The school that fits its pupils for life, that prepares them not only to make a success of life but to enjoy living, is never expensive. We cannot afford any other type."

Hanley said the taxpayer who pays the bills "knows little or nothing of school work."

"Sell your schools, in public and private," he asserted. "The taxpayer must be shown that he gets more for his money from the schools than from any other department of civil life."

"It is not only dangerous, but foolish to ruin the school systems by false ideas of economy. We must fight not only to preserve the self-respect of teachers, but to preserve the one institution that gives us assurances of safety for the future."

Hanley repeated his previous recommendations for establishment of a school on a par with the U. S. military and naval academies in which to train civil leaders.

Church Marks

by Handel and Niedlinger, respectively.

During an intermission pastored of local churches and a number of former pastors of the Ellenville Methodist Church were presented and brought greetings and congratulations. Among them were: Rabbi Jacob I. Nissels of the Ellenville Synagogue; the Rev. John H. Ludlum of the Ellenville Reformed Church; the Rev. M. Luther Sleight of Christ Lutheran Church; the Rev. George R. Hall of St. John's Memorial Episcopal Church; the Rev. William Combs, who filled the pulpit of the Methodist Church for several months; the Rev. Hugh J. McNulty, pastor of the church in 1944 and the Rev. Donald H. Spencer, pastor 1938-43 and now pastor of the Webb Horton Memorial Church, Middletown.

Dedicated in 1853
The present building occupied by the Ellenville Methodist Church was dedicated in 1858. It replaced the edifice erected in 1833 (now known as Warren's Hall, at the corner of Canal street and Maiden Lane).

In June, 1898, the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of the Ellenville Church, under the pastorate of the Rev. Horace W. Byrnes there was a notable anniversary celebration, extending through a week. Among speakers were the Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley, famous editor of the Christian Advocate and an authority on church law; who spoke for more than an hour on Sunday morning; Bishop J. H. Vincent, President of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Elder Belcher; the Rev. A. H. Ferguson, the Rev. J. W. Ackley, the Rev. Z. N. Lewis, the Rev. J. K. Wardle, who gave the anniversary sermon on the closing day, S. M. Taylor and others.

The exact date of the start of Methodism in Ellenville doesn't seem to be too clear. The 100th anniversary was celebrated in October, 1929, which would mean presumably that a "class" was formed here at that time. Child's Gazette, recently quoted, puts the date at 1826. It can not go too much further back than that because the late John C. Gray stated that in 1823 there were but four houses in Ellenville. That was the year that Charles Hartshorn settled here, became the first postmaster and found that at the end of the first quarter business amounted to exactly nothing. There was a "class" at Leavenworth, earlier, or at least there was a preaching "appointment" at one of the homes there.

As late as 1910 Brazil furnished 90 per cent of the world's rubber.

Reader Service

To watch some mothers sling their offspring around, you'd think they were little bundles of meal. Babies should be born with a sticker attached. "This end up! Handle with care!" Be gentle and be sure of yourself. Support the tiny infant along your curved arm with the palm of your hand under his buttocks, and his head in the crook of your arm. When bottle-feeding the older baby, rest him on your lap with his head firmly against your arm and your hand supporting his back. If baby has to have his throat examined—often a trying experience—place him on a table and draw his arms over his head while the examiner stands beside him. By holding the forehead firmly with one hand, the examiner may gently depress the tongue with the other hand and look in. Are you confident when bathing the baby, feeding him, playing with him? See our Reader Service booklet No. 233 for a complete guide to baby health and growth; and accident prevention. Send 25c (coin) for "Baby Care" to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Reader Service, 243 West 17th street, New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address with zone, booklet title and No. 203.

"We agreed on an amendment to the commercial rent-control law, which will include protection of persons who store automobiles in garages.

"We will work for legislation to raise the exemption of single and married persons who pay the state income tax to benefit the low income group in order to offset rising costs of living."

Wants $161,000,000

The O'Dwyer program, announced by the mayor last week, asked several long-range legislative authorizations in addition to a short-range plan to raise $161,000,000 in new funds to balance the 1948 budget.

It included provisions for an eight-cent subway fare; $84,000,000 in additional state aid; an increase in the city's debt limit from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent of the assessed valuation of real estate; and a constitutional amendment to raise the limitation on real estate taxes from two to two and a half per cent. It also would impose new taxes, including a levy on taxicab fares, which would bring in an estimated $25,500,000 annually.

"We feel the mayor is best informed as to what is needed and necessary to run the city," Fitzpatrick said following the Democratic strategy huddle. "We will go along 100 per cent with what he proposes."

Greatest Crisis

The Democratic chairman, amplifying his group's support of increased state aid to municipalities, said cities of the state are confronted with the greatest financial crisis in their histories.

The new method of canning fruits with added ascorbic acid (vitamin C) is a great protection against damage from oxidation because this substance absorbs oxygen in the jar and prevents it from acting on the fruit.

House Approves Aid Amendment

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) — The House today approved an amendment to the $590,000,000 emergency foreign aid bill which might make the program cost the United States $50,000,000 more through use for relief abroad of surplus foods bought up by the government.

The amendment, approved by voice vote, was offered by Rep. Jack Z. Anderson (R-Calif.). It would compel government agencies, chiefly the Commodity Credit Corporation, to sell surplus products for foreign aid at prices which CCC officials have estimated would mean a $50,000,000 loss on present holdings.

That estimate does not take into account citrus fruits, in which Anderson is interested, and which may be bought later by the ICC in accordance with government price support programs.

"We will not try to block this bill because it will prove before long that something better than the G.O.P. plan is needed."

In a nutshell, here's what the G.O.P. bill would do:

1. Permit and encourage business, industry and agriculture to agree on (a) sharing transportation facilities; (b) marketing livestock and poultry in a manner to utilize grain most efficiently; (c) dividing up scarce commodities which affect living costs or industrial production; and (d) regulating speculation on the commodity exchanges. Price-fixing, however, would be barred.

The voluntary agreement, when approved by the President, would be immune from anti-trust prosecution. Their length would be limited to March 1, 1949, the day the proposed law would die.

2. Continue for one year from February 28, 1948, the President's authority to regulate exports, and authorize the President to fix maximum mark-ups in export prices over domestic prices.
3. Continue for the same period existing law authorizing the President to allocate rail transportation facilities, such as boxcars.
4. Increase from 25 per cent to 40 per cent the gold reserves behind currency issued by Federal Reserve Banks; increase from 25 per cent to 35 per cent the gold reserves Federal Reserve Banks must carry to support deposits of commercial banks.

Truman Says

ation by "voluntary" means will stop.

Built around a plan to let business make agreements to hold down rising living costs without incurring prosecution under the anti-trust laws, the G.O.P. bill was introduced in the House late yesterday with the blessing of Senate and House Republican leaders.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) called a meeting of the House Banking Committee today (10 a. m.) to approve the measure, possibly without further hearings, and the House leadership docketed it for debate Monday.

Are Using "Garden Hose"

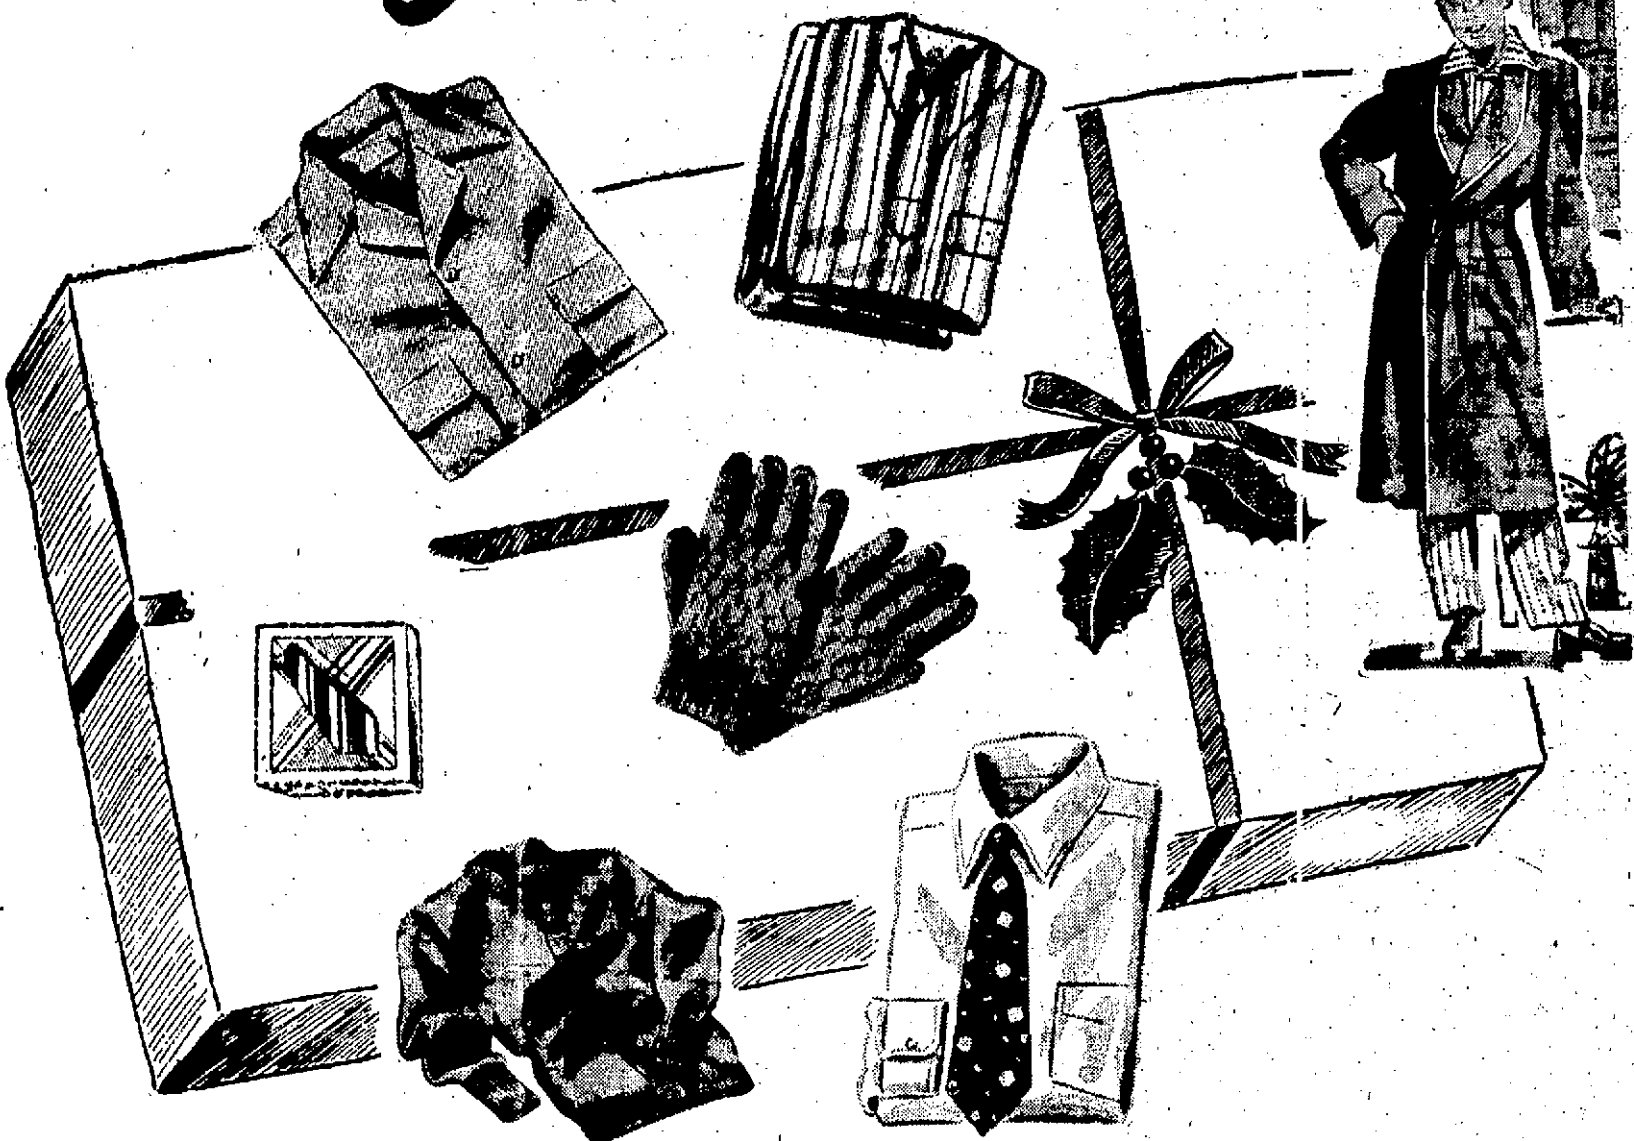

Senator Kilgore of West Virginia, one of the first Democrats heard from, declared the Republicans are "rushing to a three-alarm fire with a garden hose."

Democrats championing President Truman's own anti-inflation program were reluctant generally to comment on the counter-proposal, but a top ranking minority member remarked:

Conditions Are 'Good'
Honeoye Falls, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Conditions of a Long Island machine tool company executive, his wife and a Rochester man, injured when their amphibian airplane crashed near here yesterday, were reported "good" by Rochester Strong Memorial Hospital authorities. The pilot and owner of the plane, Frank Scott, 47, of St. Albans, L. I., and his wife, Rhoda, 48, escaped with bruises and shock. John Woodruff, 43, of Rochester, Scott's brother-in-law, suffered a probable ankle fracture.

Five Simple Fire Safety Rules to Safeguard Homes

Five simple fire safety rules can safeguard homes here from Yuletide disaster. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy warned today.

"The Christmas season brings special hazards," Chief Murphy emphasized. "Each year Christmas trees start fires in thousands of homes. Christmas lighting is responsible for many other blazes. Dwellings, stores and clubs are all menaced by flimsy decorations made of flammable material."

Fire Chief Murphy offers five suggestions to eliminate or reduce seasonal hazards. "Make sure the tree is solidly placed, to avoid upset. Keep the tree standing in water to increase its fire resistance. Have an approved fire extinguisher handy at all times. Inspect Christmas tree lights for frayed wires or loose sockets. Remember to put Christmas tree lights out before going to bed."

The chief also reminded club managers and operators of public places to guard against fire. "Fire in any crowded public building may lead to panic, where exits are inadequate to take care of so many people in a hurry. Aisles and exits should be kept unobstructed. Fire is an uninvited guest—keep it out."

Extension Is Requested

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—A year's extension of the state commercial and business rent control laws for New York city has been requested by the Joint Rent Action Committee, a private organization. John J. Lamula, legislative representative, asked Governor Dewey yesterday to recommend extension of the laws until July 1, 1949, with present ceilings unchanged. Under the laws, rents for hotels and wholesale space are frozen at no more than 15 per cent over the March 1, 1943, rate and for stores and offices at no more than 15 per cent above the June 1, 1944, level.

Agreement Is Reported

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—The British Board of Trade announced today that agreement had been reached on all the main points of a British-Soviet trade pact, now under discussion in Moscow. J. Harold Wilson, British Board of Trade president who returned from Moscow talks yesterday, reported to Prime Minister Attlee today on the negotiations. He is expected to make a statement in the House of Commons later.

Unless there is a good reason for deviating, the lead against a no trump contract should be from your longest suit. That is, unless your partner has bid another suit, in which case you lead his suit. Or if one of the defenders has bid your longest suit and you therefore deem it inadvisable to lead it. The purpose of leading from your longest suit is of course that you hope to develop winners out of your small cards in that suit. In most cases, even though you have a lead in a shorter suit that appears to be safer and more normal, you will find that it is winning policy to lead from your longest suit.

In today's hand, with West's opening of the diamond six, declarer could take no more than eight tricks. When East obtained the lead with the king of clubs, he returned a diamond, and West ran four diamonds to defeat the contract.

Had West elected to open the queen of spades—a safer lead—declarer would have encountered no difficulty in fulfilling his contract.

Had South been the declarer at a suit contract, West's proper opening lead would have been the spade queen.

In leading a small diamond against three no trump West stood an excellent chance of taking four diamond tricks. By leading a spade instead, West would merely be temporizing, hoping that East would lead, through South's marked king of diamonds, which would give West two diamond tricks. The diamond lead unquestionably stood a better chance of defeating the three no trump contract than did the spade lead.

Lions Club Commended
Action of the Kingston Lions Club in support of the Friendship Train campaign was commended in a letter from Drew Pearson, Washington, columnist, to Walter Donnaruma, president of the club, who read it at the luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mention of the letter is made in the following letter from the club to The Freeman:

"Friendship Train." It was through the generosity of our citizens, school children, church groups, food merchants that we were able to send over 28,000 pounds of food to the people of western Europe.

We would like to quote from a letter which we received on December 3, 1947, from Drew Pearson, the national organizer of "Friendship Train."

"Thanks ever so much for the most generous and patriotic response of your people on behalf of the Friendship Train. It is especially heartening to see such a magnificent contribution from a town the size of yours. It is to such people as yourself that the people of western Europe will be ever thankful."

We are indebted to The Freeman and WKNY for their editorial and generous news support, without which we could not have achieved the result in so short a period of time. Therefore, our part was indeed small but the hearts of our local people were big.

Very truly yours,
KINGSTON LIONS CLUB.

Shipments Are Suspended

New York, Dec. 11. (AP)—Shipment of relief packages of CARE, Inc., to Romania has been suspended, the non-profit agency says, because the Romanian government had attempted to collect customs on CARE packages, tried to control distribution and arrested a CARE representative. Despite an agreement with the agency, Romania hampered package deliveries and even subjected beneficiaries to questioning. Paul Comily French, executive director of CARE (the Cooperative for

Claims Speed Record

Palm Springs, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP)—Aviator Jacqueline Cochran, flying "for fun," claims a world speed record of 469.5 miles an hour for a 100 kilometer (62.136 miles) closed course with a propeller-driven plane. While her husband, Floyd B. Ockum, watched, Miss Cochran whipped her P-51 Mustang around the triangular course yesterday at a rate she said was only 28 miles an hour slower than the jet plane record for a similar route.

Bull Is Champion

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 11 (AP)—George H. Bull, Jr., 21, of Homer, N. Y., has been named northeastern state champion in the annual production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association. The prize is $200. Awards to nine other New Yorkers were announced yesterday as the organization prepared to open its 13th annual convention.

Reach for 'Hand of Death'

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Persons forced to give up their work under arbitrary age limits often reach prematurely "for the hand of death," New York state's health commissioner said today. Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, noting that people "legally" become old at 65 under the Social Security Act, said some persons reach 65 in finer fettle than others in their 40s and added: "In all fairness . . . old age should be determined by physical status as well as the number of birthdays."

Woodstock News

By Peg Hard

Faggi's Sculpture Creations Are Included in New Book

Woodstock, Dec. 11 — Alfeo Faggi, Woodstock, one of the leading sculptors in America whose work is internationally prominent, embarked on a new career when for the first time in his life he lectured at the University of Chicago. His lectures have been incorporated with others in "The Works Of The Mind," an exceptional book recently published by the University of Chicago Press.

Besides Mr. Faggi's fascinating paper, included in the book are "The Concept of Work," Yves R. Simon; "The Artist," Marc Chagall; "The Architect," Frank Lloyd Wright; "The Musician," Arnold Schoenberg; "The Statesman," Heinrich Brüning; "The Legislator," J. W. Fulbright; "The Administrator," Robert M. Hutchins; "The Scientist," S. Chandrasekhar, and the "Philosopher," Mortimer J. Adler.

In "The Works Of The Mind," the reader is given the opportunity of exploring under the guidance of 12 artists, scholars, and administrators whose own achievements are outstanding examples of enduring works of the mind, the individual fields of these men who speak out against the growing trend toward cultural and intellectual poverty. Their purpose it is stated is "to offer guidance and encouragement to the potential creator and to his audience, the general public."

A most interesting preface to the books has been written by John U. Nef, chairman, Committee on Social Thought in which he states: "The works embody values which are timeless and universal . . . the numbers susceptible to the deeper experiences offered mankind by great works of the mind have diminished with the triumph of industrialism and the concentration of the population in cities. Men and women have not lost touch with nature; they have lost touch with their souls. And it is to the soul that all great works of the mind appeal."

"We shall be told that such hopes are against the trend and therefore futile. We shall be told that the intellect has seen its day and that the only sensible course for men anywhere is to ride with the crowd. To such counsel of despair, the sponsors of this enterprise refuse to surrender."

"Danger is the price of life. The great dangers that confront mankind now could and should make the creative life more, not less, precious than it has been. The right response to the creative mind to the warnings of disaster is courage to reaffirm its own integrity."

Began in Italy

Mr. Faggi began his career as an artist at a very early age in his native land of Florence, Italy. His father was a fresco painter and gave him his first lessons in drawing. When he was 13, he entered the art academy in Florence where he studied for five years. Later he came to the United States in 1915 and served in the armed forces from 1916 until 1919. The summer of 1921 found Mr. Faggi a summer resident in Woodstock but in 1924, he took up his permanent residence here.

About his work, Mr. Faggi says, "First, it is necessary for me to be excited by deep emotion." Example of this approach are his well known "Pietà," the "St. Francis," the "Stations of the Cross," and "From The Cross." The "Stations of the Cross" were done for the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, Chicago, in the sculptor's Woodstock studio, taking three years to complete this work. His method was "to steep my mind and spirit in the tragic theme sequence and extract from the theme an essential spiritual truth. I tried to express the very heart of each of the Stations."

The artist considers the "Pietà" to be his most difficult work. The usual conception of this subject is the Virgin holding the great Sacrifice on her lap. Mr. Faggi's conception is radically different in that it is the completely "indissoluble unity of the two bodies and two spirits as the great Sacrifice returns to the source." His conception was prompted by an early memory of a frantic mother clutching the dead body of her son to her "as if trying to reabsorb her son into her own being."

"From the Cross" won for Mr. Faggi the Logan Prize in the 53rd All American Annual at the Chicago Art Institute in 1942. Of this work, C. J. Bulliet, veteran critic in the Art Digest, "It is the masterpiece."

Lewis Tells Congress Shortage in Heating Oil Result of Switch-Overs in 1946

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 11.—Memories appear to be short where John L. Lewis is concerned. He banks on the idea that people forget what happened yesterday. Maybe they do.

Mr. Lewis tells a Congressional Committee that the coming shortage in heating oil—which, by the way, is not to be widespread but only applies to certain sections of the country—is all the fault of citizens who turned from coal to oil a year or so ago.

It doesn't seem to have occurred to Mr. Lewis that anybody would remember why people turned from the much more economical coal to oil in small homes and paid for the installation of different equipment. Many people who converted to oil did so out of fear of shortage in coal.

The severe strikes which Mr. Lewis led have cost America a great deal. Many of the bottlenecks in industry and shortages are directly and indirectly due to strikes and work stoppages. Failure to mine coal caused a shut-down of steel furnaces. These are not readily started up again in the large steel mills. Delays are costly.

It is estimated that 18,000,000 tons of steel have been lost to America since V-J Day due to strikes in the coal mines and steel mills. This is enough steel to meet all present shortages. It is enough steel to satisfy Europe's needs and still give America her requirements. It is more than enough to meet for nearly two years the demands of those who have been asking 10,000,000 more tons of annual steel-production capacity.

The blow that was struck at the American economy by the coal and steel strikes was perhaps the most severe handicap the post-war period has encountered. Shortage of steel is one of the reasons why the oil industry, for instance, is unable to enlarge its production and transportation facilities. Shortage of steel has held up the making of transportation vehicles of all kinds, including automobiles.

Yet Mr. Lewis blandly tells a Congressional Committee the citizens are at fault now for having been scared away from coal and forced into the use of another fuel. He says many of them installed gas and oil burners and now are sorry.

There is no doubt that the number of users of heating oil has increased enormously. The consumption of heating oil in the homes is up about 67 per cent over 1939. Mr. Lewis seems to think the manufacturers of oil burners did a disservice to the home owners by persuading them to buy equipment. Everybody evidently was at fault but Mr. Lewis.

The truth is, of course, that one answer to the oil shortage today is for persons who can convert easily to coal to do so. In many localities and homes of a certain size it is substantially less expensive than oil.

But what assurance can these people have that the price of coal will remain below that of oil? If Mr. Lewis starts another coal strike next year and promotes scarcity as he has done so often, will the home owners be justified in turning in their oil-burning equipment and relying once more on coal?

This is the question which many a citizen wants answered. There are numerous contractors, moreover, who are building or planning to build for veterans small homes with oil burners. Shall they now change these plans and provide for coal-burning equipment, and can they be sure there will be no shortage of coal next year?

The competition between oil and coal is natural. But Mr. Lewis has seemed indifferent to the future of his own industry by allowing policies to be pursued in which the public has lost confidence. The coal companies are making vast improvements in methods of mining coal. Production is at greater heights than ever before. There ought to be an

Shokan, Dec. 11—Mrs. Philip Choppy of Long Island is spending some time with her father, George Gilles, and her mother, who has been a patient at a Kingston hospital for the past week.

Miss Beatrice Schreiner, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Emerich Lukacs, has employment in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rossman are remaining at their boarding house, which they bought from Charles Sellinger last autumn. This is the former Otto Grossmann place on Route 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Richard of the old state road plan to return to New York after the holidays.

Dec. 11, 1915—Several changes have taken place in the heights section, or Coons district, of Shokan: Willis Everett and family leave this week for New York area where they will make their home (lived on the J. T. Jones farm). Mrs. Francis T. Gilling and children have moved to New York (owned the present D. T. Lynch place). Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bogart have gone to Kingston to live (their residence on the mountain was the E. C. Bostock summer home).

Considerable work has been done on the Route 28 job in the Temple's Pond section of the town of Hurley. Here, in order to eliminate an S curve, the new alignment branches off towards the railroad tracks and on the reservoir preserve, necessitating a deep fill and a bridge in the valley of the pond brook. At Ashokan, choppers and sawyers are engaged on a clearing job along the main street of the village.

Mrs. Richard Coons provided organ music at the Reformed Church Sunday morning services in the absence of Miss Hazel Bell, who was spending the week-end with friends in Kingston.

Jules Heinkle, Boiceville young man, has terminated his services as chauffeur at the E. Wiederspiel farm on the mountain road.

Sonia Tomara, noted Herald-

Tribune war correspondent and occasional visitor to Shokan, is listed in the new issue of the Social Register by virtue of her recent marriage to the third fortune heir and former judge, William Clark.

Otto Rast, industrious and ingenious state road farmer, has a unique "smoke-house" for these parts at any rate. Mr. Rast, in building a new kitchen chimney last summer, made an oversize base which he fitted with a steel door near the foundation and another and smaller door a little higher up in the chimney. He hangs bacon and hams in the upper aperture and burns chips and sawdust down below. Thus Otto has sufficient smoke and the proper draft for his meat, and can look after the stuff without getting smoked up himself.

Kenneth Mills and Paul Stratton, two enterprising young men who hail from Maine, N. Y., are employed on the Route 28 job. The boys room at the home of Mrs. Anthony Pastre and board next door at the Gould Personne home.

Boys of '61: Still another Civil War veteran whom this columnist knew in years gone by was Wesley Buley, who lived on the sunny side of Tonche Mountain. "Wes," as the veteran was familiarly greeted in these parts, had joined up with the old Twentieth Infantry which, after being federalized, became the Eightieth Regiment. His outfit having been pretty well shot up at Bull Run and other early battles, he enlisted, June 11, 1864, in the 120th, another Ulster county regiment which earned itself with glory in the great fratricidal struggle. He came through the Virginia campaign unscathed, save for a bruise on the back of his hand caused by a spent bullet.

Returning home following his discharge from the Union Army on June 2, 1865, Mr. Buley bought the Hezekiah Elmendorf place in the upper reaches of the East Butternutkill, later spending several years in Shandaken where he worked at his trade of quarryman, and again coming back to Olive, lived for a time on the present George W. Pratt place. In later life he bought the adjoining place on the easterly slope of Tonche which has since been the Buley homestead. He was known as an industrious man, being expert at quarrying and wood chopping. His wife was the former Anna Whispell of Wittenberg. Alva Buley, Jr., is a grandson of this veteran.

In the depression of 1920 rubber prices dropped from 55 cents a pound to 10.

terpiece, I am inclined to believe, of the great American sculptor (Italian born) whose religious work is most significant of anything being done in America in our time."

Mr. Faggi has exhibited widely in Europe and the United States with a one-man show in 1941 at the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo, New York. His work is owned by the Whitney Museum, the Metropolitan Museum, Morgan Wing, The Art Institute of Chicago, as well as many private collections in Europe and the United States. His "St. Francis of Assisi" is at the Childerley in Wheeling, Illinois, and in the Santa Fe and Buffalo museums; also, many small statuettes such as the small "St. Francis" and a small "Madonna" are in permanent collections.

In "The Works of the Mind," Alfeo Faggi's contribution The Sculptor embraces a resume of his early life, The Struggle for My Roots, My Method of Approach, the "Stations of the Cross," The Method: The "Pieta"—The Human Side, Suggestions for the Development of Good Taste; On the Anarchy in Art, and suggestions about his artistic creed. Of the latter, on the penetration of the creative artist, he writes, "Artists of genuine imagination are barometers of the intellectual and spiritual conditions of the times. Not only that, but very often they will diagnose the most hidden mental and spiritual tendencies of the country."

This exceptional book is finding great favor among Woodstockers who frequent the Catskill Book and Record Shop where Sylvia Cross, who is the owner, is kept very busy answering questions about Woodstock authors and their latest books.

Woodstockers Plan To Hear Wallace

Woodstock, Dec. 11—Richard Burlingame, chairman, Ulster county chapter of the Progressive Citizens of America, announced that a chartered bus will leave the Village Green, Woodstock, Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock taking members and friends of the P.C.A. to Albany where they will hear Henry A. Wallace speak on "Domestic and Foreign Affairs" in the Odd Fellows Hall.

It was learned that a motorcade will leave Kingston for the same destination and join the Woodstock group in Albany.

The meeting Friday evening is one of a series of similar mass meetings planned for upper New York state. This first one has been particularly designated as being of interest to rural people according to information offered by Mr. Burlingame.

All seats are reserved and there are a few tickets still available through Mrs. Philip Fitz Patrick, Woodstock.

County Budget

Item is one over which the Board of Supervisors has little control and which is chiefly governed by the cost of administering justice through the courts.

"Among the major increases in the budget is that of operation of the tuberculosis hospital which is up $42,000. This increase is due to the increased cost of food, repairs, replacements and salaries and the fact that the hospital is now being operated to full bed capacity. In addition all out of county patients have been removed and the hospital is being exclusively operated for the benefit of county residents, thus there is little income from patients. A portion of the increased cost is also due to a greatly expanded program which is aimed at the eradication of tuberculosis in Ulster county through county cooperation with the state program to free the state of this dread disease in the next 20 years.

"Another item which has increased is the County Retirement Fund which is up $8,400 due to the increased salary for the county employees. The Stenographer's Tax, which is a mandatory tax on the part of the state is up $3,000.

To Help Tumor Clinic

"For 1948 the Post War Planning Fund has been increased by $10,000 to help pay for the construction and equipment for the new Tumor Clinic.

"General county salaries have been increased about $13,000 and there is also an item of $10,600 for refunds attributed to errors in assessments.

"There are also several increases in the Highway Funds due largely to the increased cost of materials and labor. The Bridge Fund has been boosted $20,000 in order to take care of the construction of several bridges which must be reconstructed in the near future. Scarcity of steel during the war years made bridge work almost impossible and there are now several bridges in the county which must be replaced.

"Snow removal is up $40,000 in the 1948 budget due largely to increased cost of labor and materials. The Machinery Fund is up $15,000 because of the need of purchasing and replacing equipment which was not available during the war. This item is principally for purchase of trucks and machinery which has worn out and was not replaced during the war period.

Share of Health Increases

"The cost of the county's share of health work has also increased from $41,000 to $51,000. This $10,000 increase is due to increases in salaries and the greater cost of operation through higher cost of all kinds of materials used. Last year many positions remained unfilled because of inability to secure persons to fill such jobs. Many of these positions have now been filled and the service to the public will consequently be enlarged.

Welfare Up to $63,000

"One of the biggest increases in the budget is in the Welfare Department where total costs have gone up $63,000. This increase is general throughout the department and is attributed to the constantly increasing cost of living. Repairs will cost an estimated $4,500 more than last year due to increased construction costs. The old age relief is up $35,000, due in a great measure to the fact that the federal and state governments have increased the monthly grant to every old age recipient. There is also a slight increase in the number of such recipients. Even the burial fund has been increased $5,000 due to the increased cost of funerals.

"Increased costs of maintenance has made necessary an increase of $4,000 for dependent children. This item reflects the upward trend in the cost of living and must be met.

Child Welfare Service

"An item of $46,000 for Child Welfare Service is also included in the budget this year. This is a new item which ordinarily has been charged back to the city, towns and county at large and did not appear in the annual budget. It has become necessary to raise this item to finance the administration of the department this year after which the cost will be charged back to the city of Kingston, towns and county at large and in that manner the money advanced this year to finance the child welfare work will eventually be returned to the county. Meanwhile the item must be included in the 1948 budget although eventually the county will be reimbursed.

"In several of the other departments there have been small increases, due to the increasing cost of county government. These smaller increases added to the major items tend to bring the total increase for 1948 up to the indicated mark."

A communication was received from Jacob Schreiber suggesting that the county appropriate the sum of $3,000 for the control of poultry disease, pointing out that the poultry industry was one of the county's largest businesses. He also suggested that the county make provision to pay damage claims arising out of loss created by "wild life." The communication was filed.

To Lease 14 Airfields
Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A new agreement with Panama for the lease of 14 airfields and other military sites largely rounded out today this country's master plan for air age defense with a ring of distant bases. If ratified by the Panamanian Assembly which has been summoned into session Friday, the agreement promises to safeguard the Panama Canal to a degree American officials consider satisfactory under present world conditions.

Man Says Union Demanded He Use Members on Truck

Says Connecticut Firm Agreed to Provide Their Own Drivers, Pay Expenses

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—The first witness in a unique N.L.R.B. action, in Federal District Court testified yesterday he was a member of the A.F.L. Teamsters Local charged under the Taft-Hartley Law with unfair labor practices against him.

One witness, Henry Rabouin, operator of the Conway Express Line of Pittsfield, Mass., said Local 294 of Albany had demanded last January that he put union drivers on trucks he leased in August, 1946 to the Middle Atlantic Transportation Company of New Britain, Conn.

Rabouin said the Connecticut firm had agreed to provide their own drivers and pay operating expenses, including wages.

He has charged that the union sought to exact wages for a union driver when the truck was operated by a non-union man.

The teamsters struck against him, he testified, after one of the leased trucks arrived at the Pittsfield terminal last September. He agreed to settlement terms Sept. 27, he said, but did not sign a contract with the union. The drivers still are put, he added.

The N.L.R.B. petition, first of two “test” cases before Stephen W. Brennan, asks injunctions covering for the first time these alleged union practices.

Forcing an employer to pay for services not performed; carrying on secondary boycotts against any employer; coercing an employer in the choice of his bargaining agent; and forcing an employer to agree to a closed shop.

Testimony is expected to be concluded by tomorrow. Attorneys indicated not all of the 25 persons subpoenaed would be called to the stand.

Brennan said he would begin Monday in Albany to hear the second N.L.R.B. action, based on charges of secondary boycotting by Montgomery Ward & Company.

Under cross-examination, Rabouin said he had filed no complaint with the teamsters based on rights he might have as a member in questions before the court.

The union attorney, Harry Pozesky of Gloversville, declared in his opening argument that the Taft-Hartley Law “can not invalidate contracts made prior” to its enactment.

“By legal implication, there is a good, valid contract,” Pozesky said in speaking of the union's relation with the Conway Express Line.

Of the 1,382 undergraduate students in Ithaca College, 14 juniors and seniors were selected for mention in the book.

Agnes Scott Smith Addresses

College Women's Club Meeting
The Kingston College Women's Club met Tuesday evening at the First Dutch Reformed Church house. Plans were made for the next Fellowship bridge January 10 at the home of Mrs. John MacKinnon, 181 Manor avenue. Reservations should be made with Mrs. MacKinnon by January 10.

Miss Agnes Scott Smith, collector and publisher of Dutch folklore, was the speaker of the evening. She explained that Ulster county has, perhaps, a greater variety and wealth of folklore than any other New York county.

Dutch, English, French Huguenot and Indian tales abound but the latter are the most difficult to find and the hardest to verify.

Included in the speaker's tales were stories of how Big Indian came to be named for Chief Wampanoag, how Dominic Bogardus and himself in a horse race and how the appearance of George Washington Hoover in Woodstock coincided with a widespread epidemic of sore mouths among the horses.

Miss Smith related tales about the D. & H. canals, the elaborate witch-catching chimneys of Dutch farm houses, the witches who lived in Lake Kill Hurley and Shady. The speaker concluded by reading several famous Dutch songs, rhymes and proverbs.

Pastry Lifters

Two aluminum half moons are used as pastry lifters. One for the right hand and one for the left hand, can be slid under rolled dough, making the transfer from board to pie-plate easy and without tearing. These semi-circular plates also help to eliminate the excessive fingering and flouring of dough, which always renders pastry tough.

HOW TO REFUTE FRIEND'S STATEMENT

A far-from-simple question to answer is described in this letter: "The other afternoon while sitting with a group of friends, my own best friend made a statement I knew was not true. Another person challenged her remark. She then turned to me and asked me to serve as witness to the truth of the statement. Should I have upheld my friend or denied her? In other words, did I owe first allegiance to friendship or to the truth?"

One way to have avoided the situation would have been to pretend ignorance of the subject. If it was something that you cared very much about, you might have said, "Just this once, Mary, I'm sorry but I can't agree with you" and then changed the subject. Later on, you could explain that you were sorry you could not support her statement, but that the facts you knew were different from those which had been told her.

Dear Mrs. Post: I received no invitation to either the wedding or the reception in the following case. I am, however, a war friend of the bridegroom. We were working together in the same office. Some of the men we work with thought the group should buy his bride a present. They asked me for a donation and I refused. Was

I wrong? Answer: The only answer I can make is that you were right, if that is the way you felt. Surely no friend would want an unwillingly given present.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband died several months ago. I now am invited to the wedding and reception of one of his cousins. May I go or would I be criticized for going out so soon?

Answer: This depends a good deal upon the size of the wedding. If the wedding is a small one—and most of the guests will be relatives—it would be proper to go. If it is a very big one, it would be in better taste to stay away.

Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Perfect Table Silver," will help you when buying the necessary silver for dinners or luncheons. Ask for E-31. Lujack Ponders Gridiron Future Irish Back Receives Heisman Trophy

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Johnny Lujack has decided to play professional football after he graduates from Notre Dame next spring but he can't make up his mind whether it will be with Chicago's Bears or their All-America Conference rivals, the Rockets. "As you know, I've been drafted by both clubs, but I'm not going to do anything until after I graduate," the Irish's great "T" formation quarterback said last night just before receiving the Heisman Memorial trophy.

The Connelville, Pa., All-American is the 13th recipient of the annual award, presented to the outstanding college football player of the nation by the Downtown Athletic Club in memory of the late John W. Heisman, for 37 years a coach and athletic director at eight different schools.

New Boston Trade Provokes Junior League Magnates

The acquisition of Stan Spence, Washington outfielder, in a swap with the Boston Red Sox for Leon Culberson, reserve fly-chaser and rookie Second Baseman Al Kozar, and the purchase of Elmer Riddle, veteran hurler of the Cincinnati Reds by the Pittsburgh Pirates, highlighted Wednesday's major league meeting in New York.

The Senator-Red Sox deal was greeted with bitter comment by several other magnates including Bill Veeck, Cleveland, Dan Topping, Yankees; Billy Evans, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, who said they were getting tired of seeing the Red Sox grab big name players right from under their noses.

Dodgers Face Shakeup

Los Angeles, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, judging by the observations of newly reinstated Manager Leo Durocher, are in for some shaking up in 1948, including a possible shift of Jackie Robinson. Durocher, in a radio interview last night with Braven Dyer of the Los Angeles Times, said Robinson, a sensational freshman first baseman of the National League last season, may be shifted to second base, replacing the efficient Eddie Stanky—but only if a capable first baseman crops up in spring training.

Legion Five Rallies To Trip 'Skins, 55-40

All the palefaces in the house were thoroughly alarmed when the Oklahoma Indians, and the Kingston Legionnaires, sat down in the middle of the municipal auditorium floor last night to stage the sacred "peace pipe" ritual.

This was a ruse to get the Legionnaires groggy, the palefaces screamed. And for a while they seemed half right. But after two rounds of floundering, Andy Murphy's brigade came to life and put the redskins to rout 55-40 in the most interesting exhibition of the season.

The southwestern redskins pranced onto the floor in full war regalia and maintained their belated attitude for two periods, rolling up a 21-17 halftime margin.

Such stalwarts as Fleet Foot, Yellow Pony and Flying Duck staged a sharp exhibition of brisk passing and clever footwork until they ran out of gas early in the fourth period. Along came the plodding white men to shower the basket with a 24-point third period splurge and for the rest of the way the sparse crowd was amused by Dick McCarthy's struggle with the Indian manager.

Murphy High Again
Big Andy Murphy sparked the Legionnaires' attack and wound up in his customary high scoring role with 16 points, as the local eagles racked up their third win in four starts.

The Indians used only one substitute, Old Crow, team manager, who was not to be confused with his spiritual namesake. Old Crow hobbled in on crutches, tossed in a basket and returned to the bench lamenting the fact that the redskins aren't what they used to be.

A set shot by Don Ross cut the Indian margin to 21-19 at the start of the third quarter. Heaps O'Bird connected with an over-head basket but Charlie Bock's long set shot and a layup by Ross tied the score at 23-23. Ray Lindhurst's backboard shot nullified Fleet Foot's followup to dead-lock the count for the fourth time, 25-25.

Mr. Murphy took over at this stage and the redskins were on the royal road to a scalp, as the enterprising journalist remarked in the press coop.

Locals Open Up
Lindhurst's foul made it 26-25 in favor of the Legionnaires. Murphy tapped in a shot under the wicket. Heaps O'Bird converted a foul. Murphy followed up with a tapin and hook shot. Lindhurst scored from long range and it was Kingston 34-26, an Oklahoma time out and for all intents and purposes the end of the game. The redskins managed the semblance of resistance in the fourth quarter holding the Legion to a 14-10 margin.

Murphy accumulated 16 points on eight baskets, while Bloom tossed four fields and four fouls for a dozen. Charlie Bock unloaded three of his pet set shots and added two fouls.

Top man for the Indians was Fleet Foot with 12 markers. Flying Duck who was just that: had 10 and Yellow Pony scored 9. Next week the Detroit Lions with a 7-foot center appear here. The Legionnaires would also like to see a crowd for a change.

In The Pocket with CHARLIE TIANO

Time for the Return Trip:

The DUSO League's announced intention of expanding into a Hudson Valley Conference after the 1948 football campaign lays it right on the line for Mr. Sam Kalloch, the corpulent calculator of football strategy at Poughkeepsie High.

It was the expansive Mr. Kalloch who led Poughkeepsie's exodus from the DUSO League back in 1929. It was announced at the time that the Blues planned "an entirely different policy" in regard to athletics. The Dutchess school has since steadfastly declined to return to the family fold.

The "entirely different policy" has had disastrous effect on Poughkeepsie's football schedule which in recent years deteriorated to a point where Sam annually comes up with names on the map that would challenge the cunning of a "whodunit" expert. They are strange, unfamiliar names, probably substantial in their own areas, but with Poughkeepsie are about as logical opponents as Joe Louis (pardon, Joe Walcott, the uncrowned champ) and Willie Pep.

Indians Are Nice Names:

Poughkeepsie's ostrich-like attitude hasn't helped the football situation in the Bridge City. We believe the vast majority of Poughkeepsie folks would rather see the Blues against Middletown, Kingston, Newburgh than against New Dorp, Sehwanakee and other Long Island and Staten Island names of Indian vintage.

We have always contended that the first move was up to Sam Kalloch and the Poughkeepsie school authorities. They took the walk, officially on March 20, 1929, and it was up to them to make the return trip. Both sides have suffered, but the burden of the loss fell on Poughkeepsie. They lost four natural opponents, while the DUSO schools lost only one each.

Skeletons have been rattled for years on this highly controversial problem without any tangible solution. Last year the DUSO Sportswriters Association depleted its treasury in what was a rather pitiful attempt to bring the two factions together. Looking back now on the cause celebre that broke Howard De Freitas' heart, it seems that only two major items were accomplished. The DUSO and Poughkeepsie moguls stuffed themselves with turkey at the invitation of the scribes and inculcated increased resentment and antagonism toward each other.

The Prodigal Never Returned:

The proposed Hudson Valley Conference is an open invitation to Poughkeepsie to send a representative to the March 14 meeting in Newburgh. The four letters that always seemed so distasteful to Kalloch will be abolished. We, of course to D-U-S-O. For the life of us, we have never been able to understand why the DUSO persisted in calling itself "DUSO" without Dutchess representation. Could it be that the DUSO fathers always cherished the hope that the prodigal son would some day return? Well, he never did. Perhaps you'd like to see the famous letter of resignation. Here goes:

THE 18-YEAR OLD LETTER
BOARD OF EDUCATION
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

March 20, 1929

Mr. Arthur H. Naylor
Superintendent of Schools
Port Jervis, N. Y.

Dear Arthur:

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last Friday night it was decided that Poughkeepsie High School would withdraw from the D-U-S-O League at the end of the baseball season in June.

I wish to add that this action on our part has no reference at all to any of our relations with Kingston, Newburgh, Port Jervis or Middletown, because we feel that all things considered those relations have been unusually amicable, but we believe that the tendency to develop highly efficient teams in high school which necessarily includes a very small fraction of all the boys is not a good one.

Our action in withdrawing from the League simply means that our proposing to try out an entirely different policy in regard to athletics. We are going to try to develop all the boys in high school rather than to concentrate only on those who have considerable athletic ability coupled with a well-developed physical condition.

I shall always pleasantly recall my athletic relations with the Superintendents. I would like to add that Poughkeepsie would like to enter a League with these same cities in which we would spend much time in discussing educational problems.

Yours truly,

WARD C. MOON
Superintendent

Sickler's Dump Vets

Teams of the Y Basketball League continued to give scorekeepers headaches in large numbers: Tuesday night when Sickler's Delivery tripped the V.F.W., 62-43, and Fuller's Sports edged through with a 53 to 43 conquest over the Skylines. The other game, Miron Lumber taking a 34-20 win over Potter's, was scored in easy fashion in comparison with the other two.

Big George Bloom, forward for Sickler's, went on a rampage against the Vets and dumped in 23 markers with eight fields and seven free conversions. Andy Murphy followed with 13 while Emmick and Jackie Ruzzo scored seven apiece. Ebelheiser was high for the losers with 18.

Another free-shooting game took over the Broadway boards when Fuller won as Glasser and Bock sparked the attack with 16 and 14 points respectively. Hank Krom accounted for 10 other points. Jordan dumped in 11 for the Skylines.

Miron Lumber took an 18-8 lead at halftime and continued to hold the upperhand in the final two periods of play to win by 34-20. Markowitz and Basch sparked the winners with nine and eight markers respectively. Pussbaum gleaned seven for Potters.

Tonight's Game

Chez Emile, fresh from its 71-15 lacing of Potter Brothers, will return to action tonight by engaging the Skylines in a 7 p. m. contest on the Y court.

Beacon Man Arrives In U.S., Hurt in India

New York (AP)—Robert Booth, 32, of 100 West 100th St., Beacon, who was employed as a dynamite worker in India, was taken from LaGuardia Field in an ambulance to Flushing Hospital after his arrival on a flight from India during which he was treated with penicillin. A Pan American World Airways representative said that Booth's left hand, which had been injured in a blast in Karachi, became infected en route and that he collapsed at Shannon Airport, Eire. A fellow passenger, Dr. Alexander Penn, who was en route to visit his mother at Boston, Mass., administered penicillin obtained near the airport. Additional penicillin was administered at Stephenville, Newfoundland, where it was obtained from the army base there. Booth said he had been hospitalized for a month in Karachi. Egyptians had a life expectancy of about 22 years at birth during the time of the Roman occupation.

General Strike Has Hold Upon Rome

Rome, Dec. 11 (AP)—A general strike directed by leftists closed down all but vital public services and railroads in Rome today, but government and labor leaders were reported to have agreed on broad general lines which might end the multiple walkout. The Chamber of Labor, which called the strike in protest against unemployment, estimated 500,000 workers were made idle. It was the first general strike in Rome in a quarter century.

Marquie Identified As Ex-Communist; May Be Expelled

Frenchman's Title Said to Be Fictitious; Was Former Reserve
Sergeant

Paris, Dec. 11 (AP)—Lt. Col. Raymond Marquie, chief of the ousted French Repatriation Mission to Moscow who yesterday attacked his government for its "malicious attitude" toward Russia, was identified today as a Communist of many years standing who wants to stay in the Soviet Union.

One of Veterans Minister Francois Mitterrand's aides declared that if Marquie's statements last night in Moscow "are confirmed he will be dismissed and expelled from the army as soon as he gets back." Marquie and the four other members of the mission are due to leave Moscow tomorrow.

The Veterans Ministry said Marquie was appointed to his post more than a year ago when Communist Laurent Casanova headed the ministry. The War Ministry termed his rank "fictitious," saying that before the war he was a staff sergeant in the reserve. A spokesman at the Veterans Ministry said Marquie was making every effort to remain in the U.S.S.R., despite his expulsion, with the four other members of his mission. The Russian government ordered expulsion of the mission in retaliation for similar French action against the Soviet Repatriation Mission in France.

Expulsion of the French Mission was reported in a Soviet note to the French government yesterday refused to accept because of its strong language and the fact it had been published before delivery.

The diplomatic dispute followed and grew out of the month-long, Communist-propagated strikes in France which ended yesterday. Marquie accused his government of plotting for three months to evict the Russian Mission from France and of systematically carrying out this plan. His statements were published here today in the Communist Newspaper L'Humanite.

He told Russian and foreign reporters at a news conference in Moscow that French charges against two officers of the Soviet Repatriation Commission were "without proof and false."

Says Government to Blame
Marquie said his government was entirely responsible for the "events of the last few days," during which the mutual expulsions were ordered and trade negotiations between the two nations were broken off.

Another member of the mission, Lt. Dumas, backed him up. He signed a statement, read at the news conference, saying the French mission had received every cooperation from Soviet authorities.

Marquie, who declared that "all responsibility for this statement is my own, personally," asserted that in the two years of the mission's existence it has repatriated 315,564 Frenchmen with the cooperation of the Russian government.

Marquie, who is little known to the general public in France, described himself in Moscow as a French soldier who was taken prisoner by the Germans and who later escaped and fought with the Partisans in Poland and the Ukraine against the Nazis.

The apparent end of repatriation of Frenchmen from Russia upset many families in Alsace and Lorraine, where many men were drafted into the German armies. One veterans group of the upper Rhine department sent telegrams of protest to French officials against the "abandonment of our children still kept as war prisoners" and demanded "continuation of repatriation beyond all political considerations."

It was learned that Col. Marquie, who is 34 years old, was appointed to his Moscow post at the request of Jacques Duclos, secretary of the Communist party in France and one of the foremost international exponents of the Communist line.

A foreman at the Rhone Poulenc Chemical Works, Marquie was called for compulsory military service in 1933 and mobilized in 1939. Made a prisoner when France fell, he was repatriated in July, 1943, because of sickness and worked in the underground resistance to Germans. He was sent to Moscow in August, 1945.

Instructions Available On Yule Decorations

Circulars describing the methods of making a variety of Christmas decorations are available at the Ulster County Home Bureau office, Wall street, Kingston. Those interested may obtain the circulars through request by mail or by calling at the Home Bureau office for them.

Among the decorations explained are the construction of a wreath, evergreen sprays and balls, table decorations and cones and other items wired for use in trimming.

Fast Denied Engagements

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Novelist Howard Fast, awaiting sentence on a contempt citation for refusal to produce records for the House Un-American Affairs Committee, has been barred from speaking engagements at two more New York city colleges, City College and Brooklyn College yesterday ruled he could not address meetings scheduled for next Wednesday on both campuses. Columbia University prevented him from fulfilling a speaking engagement before a campus chapter of the Progressive Citizens of America last Thursday.
